Change tack: accelerating the transformation towards a sustainable and circular industry

The core of the program is: TACKING NOW. Acceleration of the transition to a sustainable and circular economy. It is a program for tomorrow's leaders driven by today.

What is this about? It is about leaving a healthy world for our children and grandchildren, preventing the polar caps from further melting and the sea levels from rising, and preventing nature from being irreparably damaged making earth unliveable.

Three phases. The program consists of three phases: (1) developing a strategic innovation agenda, (2) writing a new business plan, and (3) realization of the transition.

Content. There are five lines of content: innovation and breakthroughs, developing new business models, developing high performance teams, and values and giving meaning.

Approach. Action-learning programme, Scandinavian approach, company sustainability change led by top advisors. Central programme for high potentials, parallel programme for own organisation and CEOs.

Change tack: accelerating the transformation towards a sustainable and circular industry

Our promise. To experience the urgency in a penetrating way, connecting values and giving meaning, thinking in terms of breakthrough innovations, transition acceleration towards a sustainable and circular business, and integration with your business plan cycle.
